2021-2022 HIGHLIGHTS

In 2021, Virginia State University announced the establishment of Virginia's first and only military cultural competency training certification program offered at a university. The online Homefront Readjustment for the Armed Forces certificate program is designed to teach students how to interact with active-duty service members, veterans, and their families with consideration for military culture and sensitivities.

In 2021, Virginia State University established the nation's first HBCU Center for Policing Leadership and Social Justice. The newly established initiative, known as The Center, will further allow VSU and the surrounding communities to address the critical divide between law enforcement and communities of color.

In 2021, Virginia State University (VSU) and Virginia Commonwealth University Massey Cancer Center (Massey) partnered together to use a prestigious "team science" grant to create a program that's the first-of-its-kind in the state of Virginia. The $1.7 million grant from the National Cancer Institute (NCI) will be dispersed over a four-year period and will focus on reducing cancer disparities and providing hands-on research.

In 2022, Virginia State University was selected as one of six Historically Black Colleges & Universities (HBCUs) across the country to take part in a research and design project focused on building an integrated framework for digital learning at HBCUs. The project is a first-of-its-kind $2.5 million Digital Learning Infrastructure (DLI) initiative led by Complete College America (CCA) and supported by the Bill & Melinda Gates Foundation (BMGF).

In 2022, VSU grew to offer five fully online programs: a Bachelor of Science (B.S.) in Hospitality Management, a Bachelor of Science (B.S.) in Nursing, a Master of Education (M.Ed.) in Special Education, a Doctor of Education (Ed.D.) in Educational Administration and Supervision, and a Certification in Homefront Readjustment for the Armed Forces.

In 2022, Virginia State University announced that it will offer the University's first ever fully online four-year degree in Hospitality Management degree beginning in fall 2022. The new fully online Hospitality Management degree is also the first fully online hospitality bachelor's degree offered at any public university in the Commonwealth of Virginia.
